Democrats Get Ready for Battle On All Questions

McAdoo Will Fight the Field to Abrogate Rule Requiring Two-Thirds Vote for Nomination—Combination May Seek Deadlock.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 18.—It's McAdoo against the field.

Backed by one of the strongest organizations that any candidate ever took into a national convention, with far more delegates than any other candidate possesses and supremely confident in their ability, not only to nominate their man, but also to control the convention machinery, the McAdoo managers served notice today they are going into Madison Square Garden next Tuesday prepared to give battle on everything from platform to rules.

Others Unite for Protection.

The formidable McAdoo strength and tactics are such that all opposing candidates are being driven into each other's arms for sheer self-protection in the pre-convention maneuvering here.

The fight over the rules will be the first number on the Garden's card of bouts, it appeared today.

Dark Horses Seek Compromise.

The McAdoo managers will support, if they do not actually lead, a fight to abrogate the rule that requires a winning candidate to obtain two thirds of the delegates—in this case 732. The rule has stood since Jackson's day, and it will be a stiff contest.

Abolition of the rule will be opposed by every candidacy opposed to McAdoo. The supporters of Governor Al Smith will fight it because they are confident that while McAdoo at one time or another may succeed in approaching or getting a majority of the convention, he can never obtain 732 of the 1,036 delegates. The supporters of every dark horse candidate in the Democratic stable will fight it, not because they love Al Smith, but because their only hope lies in a deadlock convention and the inevitable compromise.

McAdoo May Make Rules.

Judge David Ladd Rockwell, director general of the McAdoo campaign, estimated today that McAdoo will have 30 members on the rules committee of 54 members. This is enough to bring in a majority report—if they all hang together. If they don't stick together, and if the rules committee reports in favor of retaining the two thirds rule, then the McAdoo people may force a floor fight on a minority report, or hide their time until a deadlock is reached and then demand a reconsideration of the rules.

Despite the insistence of the McAdoo managers that the rule is archaic, obsolete and otherwise undesirable, the opinion prevails among the older leaders of the party that the rule is a good one and will withstand attack as it has withstood others in the past.

McAdoo Claims 450 Votes.

Irrespective of the fate of this particular rule, the fight over it will afford the first clearest test of strength between the McAdoo cohorts and the field.

McAdoo's managers are counting on approximately 450 delegates on the first ballot, about 500 on the second or third and small but steady additions thereafter as favorite sons begin to drop out of the heavy going. A majority is 549.

New Yorkers Seek Deadlock.

On the other hand, Smith's managers are figuring on an initial strength of about 300. New York and Pennsylvania alone are counted on to furnish more than half this number, with Wisconsin, Illinois, Rhode Island, Minnesota, Massachusetts and Connecticut turning the balance. It takes but a little more, 365, to constitute a deadlocking one-third.

The Underwood contingent, mustering less than 100, and the dark horses and favorite sons—John W. Davis of West Virginia, Samuel M. Halston of Indiana, Carter Glass of Virginia, David F. Houston of Texas and New York, Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, Governor J. E. Davis of Kansas and Governor George S. Sizoo of New Jersey among others—will take care of a number sufficiently large to block a two-thirds vote, and even possibly a majority.

The Underwood and Smith forces alone can count on approximately 400 delegates in the early balloting and this strength, their managers solemnly assert, will never, never, never go to McAdoo.

Hence the Importance of the Rules Fight.

What Rule Did to Clark.

The issue is as closely drawn as one ever was in a national convention. It is comparative in this respect to the Clark-Wilson struggle at Baltimore, in which Clark obtained a majority, but never the required two-thirds.

The Baltimore precedent is one, incidentally, that anti-McAdoo forces are relying on heavily in the rules fight. They point out that had there been no two-thirds rule at Baltimore, McAdoo's father-in-law would not have been president and the whole course of the world's history might have been changed thereby.

Radicals Plan to Control Party

Communists Packed Convention after Ten Delegates Were Allowed Them—Business Men Demanded Convention Doors Be Locked.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

St. Paul, Minn., June 18.—The third party Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention here, which has steered none too steady a course on its maiden run, appeared headed straight for destruction today upon T. N. T. mines secretly strewn in the troubled waters by the Communists.

As the convention entered its second day, amid scenes of feverish excitement, with Communists and anti-Communists hurling vituperative oaths at each other across the floor, it was clearly evident that little short of a miracle could save the meeting from wreck.

Radicals Took Control.

The Communists admittedly held the whip. They struck out with a powerful offensive that virtually took all control away from William M. Mahoney of St. Paul, who first decided to bar the radicals and then offered no objections to their being seated.

Today Mahoney, a trim, gray-haired, mild-mannered man, looked as if he had aged two score years overnight. He was weary and haggard and from all night conferences, his face, usually wreathed in smiles, was flushed red with anger. He had called the convention and held control until the Communists took it and was fighting now with his back to the wall to keep the Communists from completely dominating the convention and going ahead with their program that called for immediate formation of a third party, with an independent ticket that would exclude Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin.

"Boys, they double crossed me," This final shot by Mahoney at the radicals was all but a formal admission of surrender.

Prepare for Last Stand.

"But we (and he meant the Farmer-Laborites) haven't lost all hope," Mahoney told International News Service. "We are prepared to make one last fight on the floor to beat the Communists. If we fail, well, the convention is over. We will walk out, clear the hall and lock the doors."

Upon that program the Farmer-Laborites were united.

Wanted Doors Locked.

In fact, the delegates would have faced barred doors today had not Mahoney demanded one more showdown with the Communists. The St. Paul Association of Business Men, which has charge of the convention hall, went to Mahoney and requested that the keys be turned back and the doors locked because of the convention's action in seating the radicals.

Mahoney assured the hall managers that if the Farmer-Laborites walked out, the Communists, if they did not leave, would be driven out of the hall by force, if necessary. Arrangements were made for posting special details of police about the hall.

Mahoney Takes The Blame.

Mahoney admitted that he himself would have to assume the blame should the Communists succeed. "We should not have allowed them to get into the convention as members of the Communist party in the first place. But they pretended they would come into the convention and follow the program we outlined. We gave them ten delegates. They packed the hall with Communist delegates who traveled under false guise. They practiced cunning and trickery in trying to steal the convention from us."

An indignation meeting that lasted into the early hours was held by the Farmer-Laborites in Labor Temple. Mahoney pleaded for united support against the radicals.

Reds Give Free Banquet.

Down the street, in a hotel dining room, the Communists, happy and jovial, laughed and shouted while they staged a free banquet to which all delegates were invited. The room was packed. It was there the Communists put in the final licks with which they planned to break the back of the convention.

The fight to wreck the convention or give it new life, was scheduled to come today. It was over the question of whether a third party should come at once or later.

PARKING GROUNDS AT KINGSTON HOTEL PROPERTY

The large frame barns on the Kingston Hotel grounds. Crown street, are being torn down by the L. B. Van Wagenen Co. and the site will be used as a parking ground for the automobile busses that make the hotel their terminal. This will take them off Crown street which at times has been filled up with the busses which congested traffic through that block.

Madrid, June 18.—The Directory today signed a decree dissolving the naval commission which was to have gone to the United States to study marine problems.

the senate's chief investigators, as permanent chairman.

The McAdoo people will put forward Governor H. J. Fields of Kentucky as chairman of the powerful rules committee, and Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut as chairman of the platform committee. Both will be fought by the Smith-Underwood people.

McAdoo Thinks He Will Win

Abolition of Two-thirds Rule "Immaterial," He Says—Confident He Will Win Either Way.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 18.—William G. McAdoo, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, announced here today that he was not concerned about the proposed abolition of the two-thirds rule in the Democratic national convention.

Accompanied by his wife, daughters and a party of political friends, McAdoo passed through Washington en route to New York to attend the convention.

"It is immaterial to me," he said, in reply to questions concerning the abolition of the two-thirds rule. "I think we will win and I am confident of the result, whether the nomination is made by the two-thirds or the majority rule."

Gets "Waybill" to White House.

Railroad employees presented McAdoo with a "waybill" for his journey from Los Angeles to Washington. His destination on the "waybill" was the White House.

"We have waybilled you to the White House," a railroad spokesman told him, "because that represents the sentiment of railroad men from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

"I'll accept," replied McAdoo, "and carry out the order."

Knows the Way, He Says.

"Show him the way to the White House," someone in the crowd shouted.

"I know the way," laughed McAdoo. "It's the regular Democratic way and I am confident of taking that road in November."

McAdoo made no formal speech although the crowd that had gathered at the Union station to welcome him expected him to address them.

His Parting Promise.

Upon leaving the train the McAdoos went to the home of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson on S street for breakfast. The party then returned to the train and continued on to New York.

"I'll be back again soon, boys," was McAdoo's parting words to the hundreds of railroad employees lined along the railroad track.

Troopers Arrest Ale Runners

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 18.—State Troopers and local police have begun another assault on ale runners along the Niagara frontier, over 350 cases of ale having fallen into their hands in the last few hours. A launch with 250 cases of Canadian ale aboard was seized by a squad of United States dry agents.

Robert Duff, a stationary engineer, and Bert Seward, both of Niagara Falls, were taken from the boat and locked up. The ale is worth $2,000.

Frank Mackri of Watkins and Frank Sackia of Endicott, driving a truck in which was found 75 cases of Canadian ale were caught by State Troopers near Batavia.

State Troopers also arrested two alleged violators of the liquor laws near Gowanda and seized two automobiles loaded with hooch.

TELL JAPAN WE CONSIDER INCIDENT CLOSED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Tokio, June 18.—Plans to release tonight the American reply to Japan's protest to the new exclusion law passed by the United States were abandoned at the last minute and it is now expected the reply will not be given out until tomorrow noon.

America's reply to Japan's exclusion protest, while friendly and conciliatory in tone, implies that the incident is closed so far as Washington is concerned, it was learned.

There is considerable speculation as to Japan's next move. It is generally admitted, however, that the American communication will be used as the basis of attack on the floor Diet when the body convenes on June 24.

Baron Shidehara, foreign minister in the Kato cabinet, received the correspondents in audience today but was non-committal. The correspondents may have better success at tomorrow's meeting.

CHINA DISAVOWS ALL RESPONSIBILITY

Washington, June 18.—The state department was surprised today when it was handed a note from the Chinese government in which China disavows all responsibility for the trusteeship of the Chinese eastern railway imposed upon it by the Allies, who furnished money for its operation, when the Bolsheviks gained control of Russia.

The note declared the entire matter was one between Soviet Russia and China and that these two countries had resumed diplomatic relations.

Coalition Wins In South Africa

Even General Smuts Loses His Seat In Parliament—New Legislators Will Seek South African Independence.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Capetown, South Africa, June 18.—Former Premier General Jan Christian Smuts and the South African party have been defeated in the Union of South Africa general election upon the face of incomplete returns received here today. Owing to the isolation of large districts and the difficulty of communication, it will be a day or two before the final result is officially known.

The powerful Nationalist-Labor party coalition succeeded in winning in districts where the South African party seemed secure.

Leaders of the Nationalist-Labor party, claim they will dominate the next parliament.

Notable gains were made by the Laborites, who virtually swept the Rand, South Africa's great mining district.

From present indications, the Nationalist-Labor coalition will have a working majority in parliament even if General Smuts' South African party should hold the most seats of any individual political organization.

General Hertzog, leader of the opposition against General Smuts, is expected to be the next premier, but the gain in strength on the part of the Labor party may compel the selection of Colonel Croswell, Laborite leader, for this post. Hertzog is one of the Nationalist leaders.

A table compiled at noon showed the following incomplete results:

South Africans—25.

Laborites—18.

Nationalists—12.

Independents—1.

General Smuts lost his own seat in parliament which J. Hay, a Laborite, won. This was a severe blow to Smuts' own prestige as well as that of his party.

Victory of the Nationalist-Labor group probably will revive agitation for South African independence. Extremists among the secessionists want to establish a republic.

Rhode Island Lawmakers Fight

Fits Used Freely When Senator Attempted to Seize Control In Absence of Lieutenant-Governor.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Providence, R. I., June 18.—Deputy sheriffs were stationed in Rhode Island's senate chamber today to prevent any further disagreement among the Solons coming to blows.

Yesterday's melee resulted from an attempt on the part of Senator Arthur A. Sherman, Republican, to seize control of the body in the absence of Lieutenant-Governor Felix A. Toupin, Democrat. When Sherman called the body to order Democrats objected and prevented the clerk of the senate from calling the roll.

From political gestures, fits were suddenly used for more belligerent purposes. Spectators aided to the disorder and in a few seconds the chamber was in an uproar. Senator Sherman's attempt at a coup, similar to that successfully placed recently by the Democrats at a rump session, held when Republican members walked out, was a failure.

Governor Flynn has ordered High Sheriff Jonathan Andrews to prevent any recurrence of the disorder and the sheriff has stationed his men in the chamber for that purpose.

Soon Return to Normal Weather

Weather Expert Says Backward Season Is Caused by Icebergs Staying Home Instead of Roaming Around—"Atmospheric Anarchy" Nearly Over.

(Copyright, 1924, by International News Service.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 18.—If everyone will just sit tight and be patient, we soon will be enjoying pleasant, normal weather all over the United States.

The promise came today from Charles L. Mitchell, United States weather forecaster, when asked if the present unusual conditions pre-saged permanent new habits on the part of the weather, with perhaps a mix up of the seasons.

From all observations, Mitchell said, the worst of the atmospheric anarchy is over, and unless unexpected phenomena bob up the United States may be considered right now as having entered the first stretch of the return to normal weather.

"Is there anything singular about the weather we have been having?" Mitchell was asked. "If there is, what is the cause?"

"The United States has been experiencing very uncommon weather," he explained. "East of the Rocky Mountains this spring and summer temperatures were unusually low, and there were heavy rains. Crops, as a result, were from two to three weeks late. West of the Rockies it was warmer than customary, with an absence of rain."

"That still is true in the south-west. Temperatures of 100 have been reported nearly every day from southwest Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and other southern and western areas."

The cool and wet wave, Mitchell explained, may be traced directly to the iceberg zone around Newfoundland and the Grand Banks.

Ordinarily, he continued, icebergs start south in early spring and chill the Atlantic waters. But, for reasons as yet undetermined, the icebergs decided to spend this season at home.

"Two coast guard cutters making observations there for us," said the forecaster, "reported a notable absence of icebergs. Because of this, the temperature of the water was above normal. That brought about a corresponding warmth in the air."

"From this you have the incongruity of Newfoundland enjoying pleasant warm weather while the United States, further south, is chilly. The relationship is simple. Warm air and low atmospheric pressure go together. Consequently, the pressure about Newfoundland is low just now."

"When the pressure is low the air currents thaw, swirl about, move in a direction opposite to that followed by the hands of a clock. Therefore they have been bringing cold air down from the northwest in a big circular sweep that would go, for example from Montana down as far as Tennessee."

"Were the pressure high, the currents would be moving clockwise. Then warm air from the southeast would be swept up into that territory now feeling the breath of the northwest."

"The northwest-to-southeast sweep has permitted a series of rain storms that otherwise would be headed up in extreme northwest to roam around over the north and central United States. That is, it has permitted disturbance which cause these showers to come farther south."

Evangelical Lutheran Synod

The Rev. Samuel Trexler, D. D., President, Addresses the 23rd Annual Convention at Holy Trinity Church, New York.

The 23rd annual convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of New York and New England opened on Tuesday evening, at Holy Trinity Church, 66th street and Central Park West, New York city, with the sermon by the president, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler, and administration of the Holy Communion. He called for a definite Christian attitude to the social, industrial, and racial problems of the day, an attitude so clear that it could be relied upon as certainly as we can now predict the attitude of capital, or labor, or the farmers' bloc to any proposed piece of legislation. The Church, he declared, needs renewing, with the spirit that comes from her living head.

"We are standing between two great quadrennial political conventions," Dr. Trexler said. "The proverbial man-in-the-street becomes very little excited by the promises made by the political parties. He has been too often deceived by the failure of like promises. There have been many attempts at world friendship, but in 1914 these snapped like bands of paper before the better impulses that surged in men's hearts. Against these conditions idealists, oftentimes young men and women, give themselves with a fine spirit of devotion. Here and there a rampart falls, but in other places selfishness and creed become more strongly entrenched."

"The church must meet the problems of society and race with hopefulness and a Christian spirit. A Christian's religion is not for the byways of thought and action. Once the individual is consistently and thoroughly Christian, we can look for real progress in the relations of mankind. This will have much more value than endless legislation."

"A former vice-president recently said, 'What our country needs is fewer legislating preachers and more praying legislators.' We know what to expect from any given group on any given subject in the thought of the times. We always know the reason that will come from the industrialists, from the farm bloc, from the financial interests. It will be a day of new things when the Christian man, and the Christian group, can always be relied on to respond to all problems—national, racial, political, and industrial—with the Christian attitude."

"The church is the Body of Christ; but it is frequently a sluggish organ—moving, but with a pace that is not more glorious than other organizations which have no living head. The business of the church throughout the year is expressed to the world largely in figures. The statistics which we gather are an annual recurrence. We are again making a resume of the year's working in these terms. We balance accounts, we number accessions mechanically, we discuss problems coldly, and eternal truths in an abstract fashion."

"Into all this mechanism must come anew the spirit of Christ. New accessions mean more souls who have come into a new relation with Him; money and gifts are given to bring in His kingdom; and the entire machinery of the church becomes simply a medium to bring salvation to those who are in darkness. Christ becomes not a problem but a passion."

CROP CONDITIONS GOOD BUT PASTURES POOR

The bright spot for New York state dairymen in the crop conditions on June 1st is the excellent showing that hay is making in most parts of the state, according to the report of the New York State Department of Farms and Markets and the United States Department of Agriculture. This is the first time the June 1st condition has been as high as 90 per cent since 1919, when it was 39. Late frosts did some damage to clover during May but on the whole the cool, damp weather has been fairly favorable for clover, timothy, alfalfa, and mixed grasses. If favorable weather prevails from now on through harvest time, a very satisfactory crop may be expected.

Pastures in this state have shown some improvement over the very poor condition of a month ago. However, the June 1st condition of $4 per cent is, with the exception of last June, the lowest since 1903. The weather throughout May was several degrees colder than usual and retarded growth. In addition to this, some dairymen were short of feed, and had to turn the cattle out before the pastures were really fit. Some of the best farmers were still feeding their cows hay the last of May. Pasture conditions for the United States are $2.2 per cent compared with a ten year average of 91.

With the seasonal peak of milk production at hand, and the rather unfavorable prices for milk now prevailing, many New York state farmers will figure closely on whether heavy supplementary feeding will pay, should pastures continue poor.

WHALE SHARK LARGE BUT GENTLE MONSTER

Ocean Leviathan Is Without Trace of Ferocity.

A truly delicate monster is the whale shark. A small-scale model of a 30-foot specimen has just been placed upon exhibition in the American Museum of Natural History in New York, and the public pauses to admire the creature for his fancy coat and his coy eye without appreciating his amiable disposition. The whale shark is as harmless as a guinea pig. He has never tasted man. He does not even eat his brother fish, although he himself is the largest fish in existence—the whale, of course, being not a fish but a mammal.

Whale sharks have been measured up to a length of 45 feet, and whale fishermen, whose keen eyes are accustomed to taking such measurements, declare that they have seen whale sharks 70 feet long. How strange, then, to discover that the teeth of this giant of the ocean are no longer than one-eighth of an inch!

But he has six or seven thousand of them, including both jaws. He wears his tiny eye in the upper jaw, where it can observe his continuous dinner.

Possessing teeth so dainty, the whale shark has but one weapon of offense—his tail. He never harms men unless he happens to rub up against the side of a boat, probably to rid himself of barnacles, and if he over-turns or smashes the craft upon these occasions it is not with malice aforethought.

When he dines he does not gobble large fish, like the other sharks. Instead, he swims with his mouth open and collects the small animals that float upon the surface of the sea. The water passes over his gill-rakers, and these sift out the food. It then passes out through his gill-slits. He swallows everything that is taken in, and of course the quantities of little jelly fish, crabs and other small fry that he requires in a day are enormous.

Why do they call him a whale shark? Because he is a whale in size and in his manner of feeding, and because he is often found with whales. More generally, he is seen in company with other sharks, but he is so much larger than they that by comparison with him they seem no bigger than the pilot-fish or shark-suckers when seen beside the ordinary small shark. This statement was first made in 1840 by a pearl-fishery inspector, who amazed the world with his account of a giant fish seen in the Indian ocean.

If the whale shark's behavior is handsome, so is his appearance. His coat is a delicate smoke-gray, thickly covered with white spots, which cause him to resemble a marine Milky way. Unfortunately, one is not likely to see him on a fishing trip. Only five specimens have been taken in the Atlantic ocean—four off the coast of Florida and one off the southern coast of Brazil. He is encountered throughout East Indian waters, particularly near Java, and is known in the Philippines, on the coasts of Japan, New Guinea and Australia.

States Write Insurance

New Zealand and nearly every state of Australia have developed a system of public life insurance. A booklet issued by the New Zealand Insurance department informs us that "its purpose was to give those who insure 'the greatest possible amount of security at the least possible cost.' " The department is self-supporting. Profits are divided at regular intervals of three years among policyholders. There are almost no limitations, says the New York Times. A policyholder may commit suicide the day after this policy is written, but if his heirs can prove that he did not take out the policy with the intention to defraud the insurance is paid. A great variety of policies are written and the rates are comparatively low.

The same may be claimed by the insurance departments maintained by the several states of Australia. In both Australia and New Zealand much private insurance business is annually written. But most of this is done by friendly societies or by companies which are largely co-operative in character.

Fictitious Marvels

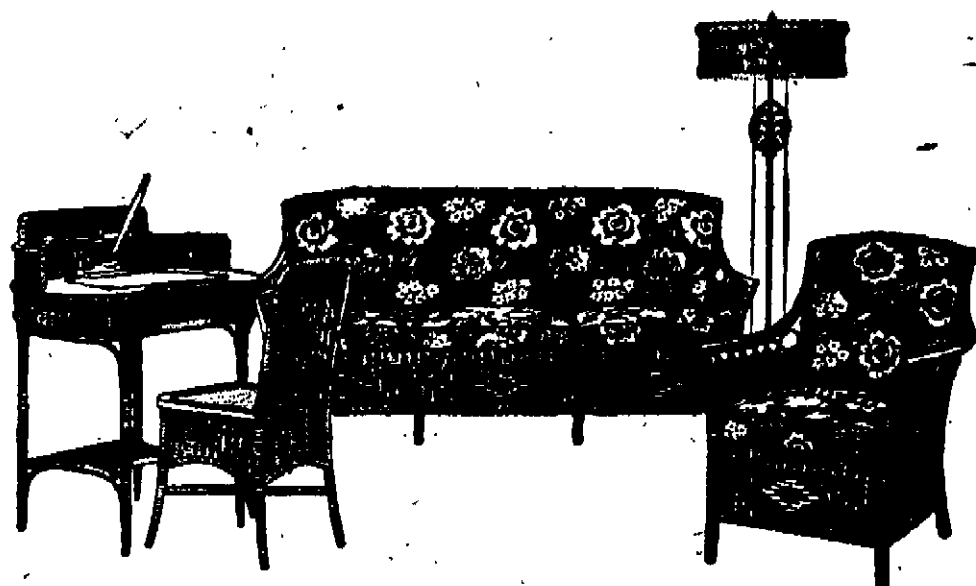

There recently appeared in Vancouver, B. C., a man who was credited with performing marvelous cures. Thousands attended his meetings, and tremendous stories went about as to his powers. Finally twelve honest and capable men investigated him, and discovered that not a single marvelous thing could be credited to him; that the thousands who told wonderful tales were indulging in plain falsehood. This is also the history of every other marvelous thing. —From E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Most Valuable Gem

Probably the most expensive stone in the world is the stone known as the oriental amethyst. This is really a sapphire of amethyst color. Our amethysts are only quartz. Real amethysts, emeralds, rubies and sapphires belong to the corundum series and are all of the same composition. There are only a few of these valuable oriental amethysts in the world and these are guarded by Indian rajahs.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 15, 1924.

Great Britain is shortly to pay into the United States treasury another $69,000,000 on her war debt. No doubt there are murmurs, for the burden is heavy for a nation otherwise so tax ridden, but it has been generally accepted as essential for British credit and prestige.

Senator Ralston has asked the Indiana Democratic convention not to endorse him as a Presidential candidate. "There is something," he says, "about the greatness of this exalted position that admonishes me against wanting to undertake the execution of its grave and solemn duties." Such modesty is rare, even when age and declining health breed caution.

The old project of building a railroad tunnel under the English Channel has been revived and it is said that the work would cost only about $155,000,000, which is less than has been readily voted for American city subways. The original objection that France might invade England, or England might invade France, through such a tunnel may have less weight in this age of air fleets and modern navies. Could it not be arranged to flood the tunnel at need and give the invader a worse experience than that of the army of a certain Pharaoh in the Red Sea?

LET JUSTICE BE DONE.

Many observers believe that the increase in violent crime noticeable throughout the country is directly due to the remote connection between crime and its punishment. Those with criminal intent fail to see the relation between a murder and the execution of the murderer several years after, if, indeed, he is put to death at all and does not win his freedom on one pretext or another. Crime increases directly as the lessons which prompt application of the law would teach fail to make an impression on the public mind.

Few crimes in recent years have attracted as great attention as the recent kidnapping and murder in Chicago. Probably never has a clearer case of guilt been made against the defendants, involving, as it does, their confession and material evidence to support it. They are both subject to a double death, so to speak, as the law specifically decrees death for both murder and kidnapping for ransom. Whether or not the extreme penalty is visited upon them remains to be seen, and the public will follow every turn of the case with keen interest. The nation's criminal element will receive encouragement or discouragement from the outcome of the Chicago case as it has seldom been influenced by a court proceeding before.

THE PRESIDENT'S POINT.

In his address to the graduates of Howard University President Coolidge expressed the view that the purpose of Providence in the enslavement of African negroes in America was to bring them under the influence of Christianity. Commenting, the New York Times critically remarked: "The President expanded this curious idea at length, but it is doubtful if his hearers were moved to any deep feelings of gratitude in behalf either of themselves or of their slave ancestors. As a civilizing device, slavery was a rather clumsy one, and it is rather obvious that here as elsewhere, all through the ages, the negro was enslaved to get work out of him, not to improve his religious or social status."

Of course Southern planters who invested in slaves wanted "to get work out of them," and of course the New England slave traders who brought them from Africa wanted to get money out of the sale of them, and both objects were attained. But all that is beside what presumably was the President's point. The far-reaching purpose of Providence, not the object of slave ship owners or planters, was the subject. Whether American negroes of today are better morally than their savage ancestors who roamed the African bush may be open to debate, but it is certain that through removal to America the race was civilized, or at least lifted higher in the scale of civilization. It is also certain that American slavery, even with all that may be justly said against it, was an industrial school that gradually transformed untutored savages into more or less efficient workers with habits of restraint and perseverance which enabled them, when set free, to become self-supporting men in a civilization far above the ken of their ancestors. That by itself was a substantial gain.

NERVES AND DIGESTION.

It is not unusual for a patient to complain to his physician about a form of indigestion and diarrhoea that is very persistent.

The physician uses the ordinary remedies, and endeavors to allay his fears by telling him that the symptoms are not like those that would be caused by cancer, ulcer, or other serious organic condition.

The patient returns in a short time and is not any better.

The physician in order to prove that there is nothing seriously wrong, then suggests a test meal and removes the material from the stomach with the stomach pump.

Nothing unusual is found. A bismuth meal is then given, and its progress through the intestine is watched for three or four days by means of the X-ray.

Again nothing is found.

This is sometimes sufficient to satisfy the patient but not in every case.

Now what is really the matter? Well, this is often called "nervous indigestion," and although physicians do not like this name it is the one most generally used. It is simply the same thing in an aggravated form from which you suffer when you have had something worrying you, or have received some bad news.

You will remember that you were unable to eat anything, and you found yourself troubled with diarrhoea every time the door or telephone bell rang.

Your physician has told you that medicine is not what you need, but you have tried one thing after another, until you have almost started some real trouble in the stomach or intestine.

Now what is the treatment? Well, just as the sight of good food excites the mouth and stomach juices, depressing emotion can have the opposite effect, and the juices are not forthcoming to take care of the food.

Then in the large intestine the nerves which drive the waste material along are stimulated to over-activity, and a diarrhoea results.

The only treatment is that of getting outdoors taking regular exercise, eating simple nourishing food.

Getting outdoors gives a change of scenery and gets the mind away from the depressing emotion. That is why the holiday, the change, the new form of work or exercise will render almost a magic cure in a very short time.

A fire doing damage of $100,000 to a loft building in the Congress avenue district had called all the central companies into service early in the evening and kept them busy just before the Arena fire broke out.

Over Million Increase Over Last Spring's Record Output From State Nurseries—Farmers Led in Tree Planting.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 18.—A new record was set in the movement for the reforestation of idle land in New York state this spring when more than eight and a half million young trees were distributed from the Conservation Commission's forest tree nurseries, exceeding last year's spring planting record by more than a million trees.

The orders for the spring planting alone this year are practically equal to both the spring and fall seasons last year and orders are already on file for the fall season from prospective planters who want to be in ahead of the rush.

Good Investment for Future.

More than half of the total number of orders received came from farmers and individuals indicating that the reforestation movement is making a strong appeal to private landowners throughout the state as a good investment for the future.

An analysis made by the Conservation Commission of the shipments made from its nurseries for the spring planting season just ended shows a total of 1,348 orders calling for 8,594,740 trees which far exceed both in the number of orders and the number of trees the distribution for any preceding spring.

From farmers and individual landowners 715 orders were received calling for 4,239,000 trees, an increase of 1,490,215 over the number of trees ordered from the same sources last year. Twenty-eight industrial concerns sent in 32 orders calling for a total of 1,580,000 trees, the orders ranging in size from a few thousand to nearly half a million trees.

Cities Plant Watersheds.

Fifty-three cities and villages ordered over a million trees mostly for planting on watersheds for the protection of their water supplies.

Farm bureaus ordered 626,390 trees for making demonstration plantations on farms in every county of the state having land suitable for the purpose. Sportsmen's associations ordered more than a quarter of a million trees most of which were planted along the banks of streams and for improving the covers for game. The increased interest on the part of sportsmen's associations in tree planting for the better conservation of wild life this year has been very marked. In Broome county, the Broome County Sportsmen's Association distributed trees to rural schools throughout the county and interested the school authorities in planting school district forests with the ultimate object of establishing forests of this character sufficiently large to pay at maturity the school taxes of the district.

No trees were planted by the state this spring in the forest preserve as the demand from individuals, municipalities and various outside sources took all the planting stock available and it is the policy of the state to encourage the reforestation movement by giving preference to individuals and private organizations. Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald has repeatedly pointed out the need of increasing the area of productive timber forests and has urged the importance of cities and counties making use of all available land for this purpose.

Kingston Planted 15,000.

Glens Falls made the largest plantation of any city, adding 200,000 trees to its forest previously planted. New York city followed with 166,000; Little Falls planted 100,000; Carthage, 60,000; Oneonta, 50,000; Rochester, 70,000; Greenwich, 40,000; Newark, 25,000; Elton, 25,000; Gloversville, Malone and Salamanca each 20,000; Waverly, 13,000; Warsaw, 12,000; Sherburne, 11,100; Kingston, 15,000; Canastota, 11,000; Binghamton, Canaan, Dansville, Ithaca, Plattsburg, Utica, Watertown and Waterville each 10,000.

New Paltz and Saugerties Included.

Other cities and villages making plantations this spring included Catskill, Newburgh, New Paltz, Saugerties and Liberty.

The largest individual industrial plantation was made by the Northern New York Utilities Co., 450,000 trees, with the St. Regis Paper Co., second, 255,000 trees, and the Raquette River Paper Co., 260,000 trees. The Utica Gas and Electric Co. and W. J. Cowee, Inc., each planted 50,000 trees; Jackson & Perkins Co., 35,000; Blount Lumber Co., 43,000; Adirondack Water Works, Lowville, 37,000; and the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation, 25,000.

Other industrial concerns making plantations were the Briggs Lumber Co., American Hard Wall Plaster Co., Central New York Fur Co., J. O. Ballard & Co., Debar Mountain Silver Fox Ranch, Inc., Elmira Water, Light and Railroad Co., Eaton & Dence, Inc., H. F. Hughes Co., Inc., Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., P. E. Kennesha's Son & Co., Harimo Corp., Hudson River Day Line, New York Sand and Packing Co., Rudd Wurlitzer Manufacturing Co., H. A. Robinson & Co., Sterling Salt Co., St. Lawrence Valley Power Corp., S. Alfred Seely Co., and Werner Extract Co.

School Forests Popular.

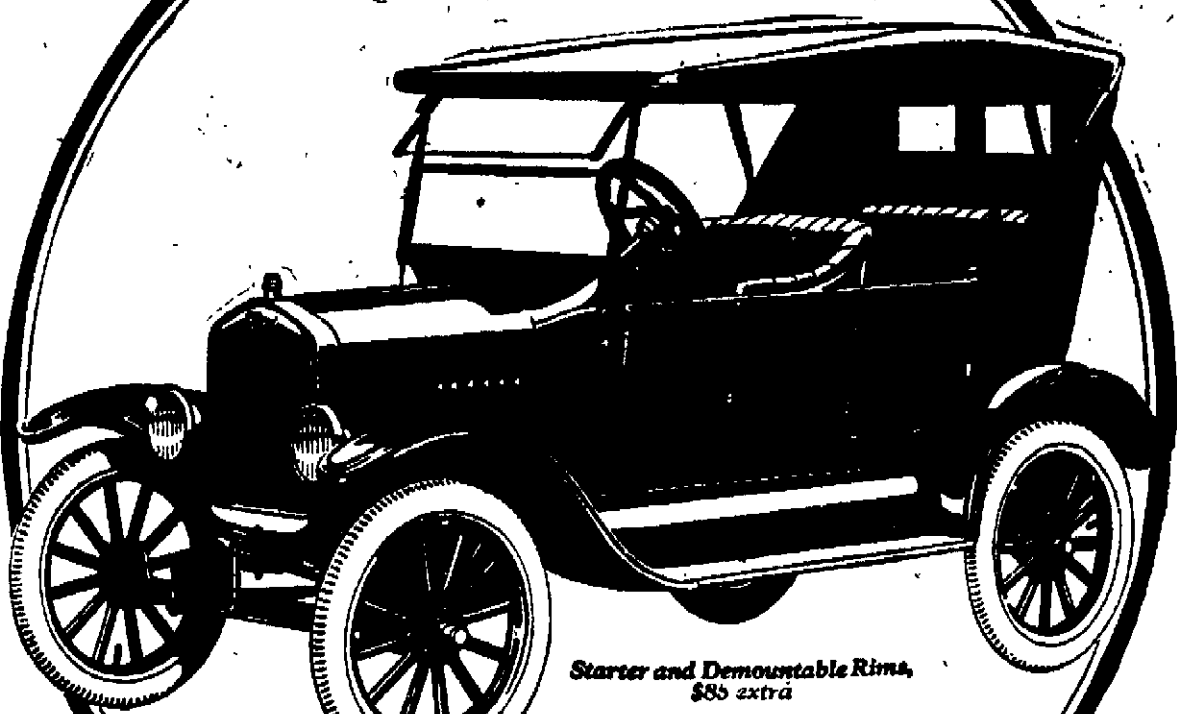

The town of Watson, Lewis county, added 10,000 trees to its school forest, making 34,000 planted to date. Plantations were made by rural schools throughout Broome county. School forests were started in the town of Walton by the Cold Brook School and the White Sulphur Spring School.

Among the larger plantations made by sportsmen's associations was the Oneonta Conservation Club, 20,000. The Orange Lake Fish and Game Club also planted trees.

PHOENICIA.

Phoenicia, June 18.—Forest Ranger Hilson has been equipped with an Evinrude engine and pump and 1,400 feet of 1½ inch hose for the purpose of forest fire use in the county. The test given the engine threw a stream 100 feet in the air at an elevation 300 feet above the pump. The pressure was of 200 pounds. Each ranger in the county has been supplied with a double equipped two man forestry pump. The towns people may well feel proud that this fire apparatus is on hand for it holds a great safety, not alone confined to the forest fire but village and out places, because water can be obtained from a brook or creek and the pump delivers it at a long distance. Credit is due Ranger Hilson for seeing this need and obtaining it for the section.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

"This is when we have the real fun," said the strawberries on the strawberry shortcake. Their faces were red with excitement and they looked very gay and handsome.

"Sometimes we're just eaten plain and, of course, that is all right. Sometimes we're eaten with cream and sugar, and that is all right, too."

"Then, again, we're used for ice cream and ice cream sodas and all such delicious dishes, but the great honor to strawberries is when a strawberry shortcake is made."

"We strawberries sat in a blue-and-white bowl. We had been all washed and hulled and we looked very bright and happy and the water had made us feel nice and at our cleanest and best."

"Then we watched what was going on. Another big bowl was brought out. Then eggs and flour and baking powder and hot water and a little vanilla and some sugar all had a regular party of it."

"They must have enjoyed themselves! They were turned around with a fork and mixed all together after a time, though at first we thought the eggs were going to have the right of way."

"But no, after a time they all became so friendly and they all blended together so beautifully and became such a pretty yellow color and looked so fluffy and yet thick enough to have some substance."

"Oh, such a pretty mixture as was in that bowl!"

"And then the oven was lighted and the mixture was put upon two tins which had all been nicely greased."

"That was considerate of the one who made the cake. For after having such a good time it would have been horrible if the mixture had had to stick to a tin instead of turning into a part of the cake which was later taken out of the oven."

"Well, after the mixture had been in the oven upon the two tins for awhile the most delicious smell came over the whole kitchen, and pretty soon—not a long time at all—out came the two tins all puffed up and pretty-looking."

"How good they did smell! Oh, they looked fine too!"

"They came right out of their tins so easily and, after they were nice and cool, they were put on a great big dinner plate."

"We had had some sugar put with us, so the sweetness would get right into us and, all sweetened and fixed as we were, we were divided between the layer which was between the two cakes and upon the top layer."

"We had been squashed and we were juicy and very delicious. We weren't hard and stuck up at all. We were so nice and squishy!"

"And then some cream was whipped and upon the top of us, as we sat upon the cake, the delicate, beautiful whipped cream was placed."

"We then became a real strawberry shortcake or perhaps I should say a strawberry spongecake, for we weren't a biscuit shortcake, you know."

"Then our bliss was perfect, for we knew how good we were, helped by the cake and the cream, and, too, by the one who had made us."

"Ah, but we can't talk any more, for we are being taken to the dining room for dessert. Listen to what the family will say."

"And, as the strawberry shortcake was carried into the dining room, cries of joy came from every one and as it was eaten sighs of pleasure could be heard and speeches such as this:

"Ooooo, isn't this good!"

A Love-ly Game

Little brother was missed by his sister, who was supposed to be taking care of him. When he reappeared he said that he had been playing postman.

"Where did you get the letters to give to our neighbors?" asked his sister.

"Oh," replied little brother, "they were nice ones, tied up with ribbon, in your bureau."

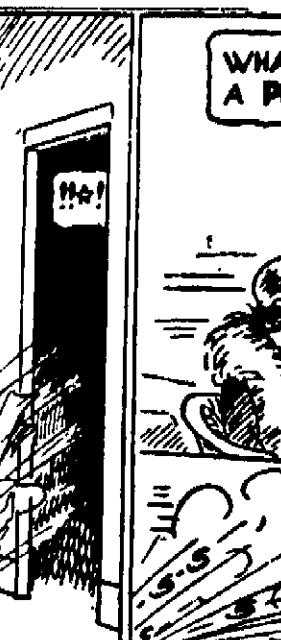

Babies in Bunches

It was the first time Bobby had ever known any one to have triplets come to their house, and when a neighbor family made the announcement he was quite excited and said: "Why, mother, Rusty's folks get their babies in bunches."

GAS BUGGIES—His Intentions Were Good

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union)

The first lesson in life to learn, is to burn our own smoke, that is not to inflict on outsiders our personal sorrows and petty morbidities, not to keep thinking of ourselves as exceptional cases.

—James Russell Lowell.

SUMMER GOOD THINGS

Peas are one of our most valuable vegetable proteins for the family.

Green Pea Soup.

—Take a pint of shelled peas, six spring onions, a teaspoonful of sugar, cook until tender enough to put through a puree sieve. Heat a quart of milk, thicken if liked with a tablespoonful of flour cooked with two tablespoonfuls of butter, add the puree, salt and pepper to season and boil up. Serve hot.

Peas and Peppers.—Cut the stem ends from six peppers, let stand in strong salt water for several hours. Drain and fill the shells with cooked peas, one-half cupful of chopped chicken or other meat, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, onion juice, salt, pepper and some of the liquor from the peas to moisten. Bake until well-heated through and the peppers are tender. Sprinkle the tops with buttered crumbs and brown under the gas flame.

Hot Cherry Pudding.—Take a cupful of flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder, pinch of salt, and milk to make a drop batter. Grease pudding cups with butter, add a small spoonful of the batter, then two tablespoonfuls of cherries, juice and all. On top add another spoonful of the batter, leaving room for the mixture to rise. Place the cups in a deep pan with boiling water to cover the bottom well but not come up into the cups. Cover closely and boil fifteen minutes. Serve with cream and sugar.

Spanish Salad.—To two cupfuls of diced chicken add one diced cucumber, a cupful of walnut meats and a cupful of cooked peas. Mix with any well-liked salad dressing and serve on lettuce.

Pound Cake.—Cream one cupful of good, sweet, fresh butter, add one and two-thirds cupfuls of fine granulated sugar, beating until all is added, then add five eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition; fold in two cupfuls of pastry flour, flavor with grated lemon rind and bake in a loaf-pan one hour. Line the tin with buttered paper.

NEW YORK FRUIT CROPS STARTING WELL

Fruit crop prospects in New York appeared to be about average for apples on June 1st and better than usual for peaches and pears, according to the crop report of the New York State Department of Farms and Markets and the United States Department of Agriculture. However, the spring has been unusually late, and some of the trees in the later sections of the state were scarcely in bloom at that time, so that it will not be surprising if condition estimates are materially within a margin of the fruits begin to develop rapidly.

Reported condition of apples in New York was 77 per cent, compared with 85 per cent last year, and an average of 79 per cent for the last 10 years. The condition figures for the entire United States are slightly below last year but above the 10-year average. In the principal apple states, the "commercial" condition figures are New York, 77; Virginia, 80; West Virginia, 73; Michigan, 73; Missouri, 68; Arkansas, 68; California, 75; Oregon, 70; and Washington, 55. The "Commercial" figure for the United States is 71.6.

While there were reports of winter damage to peaches in some portions of the peach belt, the more intensive areas in the Hudson valley and in western New York came through the winter in good shape. The reported condition on June 1st was 84 per cent. Last year it was 74, and the average of the last 10 years has been 65. While it is too early to give a really satisfactory forecast of production, the June condition figures would indicate a state crop of 2,545,000 bushels. The production last year was estimated at 1,700,000 bushels and the average crop of the last five years has been 2,210,000 bushels. The forecast of production for the United States is 52,514,000 bushels. The total United States production in 1923 was 45,702,000 bushels and in 1922, 55,852,000 bushels.

Pears bloomed well, and the condition of 90 per cent in New York state is far above that of last year, which was 76 per cent, and the 10-year average of 77 per cent.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

LADY GRACE GETHIN.

Lady Grace Gethin was the daughter of Sir George Norton, and was born in 1876. Liberally educated, she was married to Sir Richard Gethin of Ireland. Lovely and beloved and possessed of great accomplishments, she did not live long enough to display them to the world, for she died in her 21st year. She was buried in Westminster Abbey, where a beautiful monument is erected to her memory. Moreover, for perpetuating her memory, provision was made for a sermon to be preached in Westminster Abbey yearly, on Ash Wednesday, forever. She wrote and left behind her a work which, soon after her death, was published under the title of "Reliquiae Gethinenses," or some remaing of the most ingenious and excellent lady Grace Gethin, lately deceased, being a collection of choice discourses, pleasant apothegms and witty sentences written by her for the most part by way of essay and at spare hours, 1700."

THE PURCHASE OF BOSTON.

Not very many folks are aware that "The Hub"—or rather the site of it—was purchased from an Indian chief for what the average man pays today for a good suit of clothes. The sale took place just 240 years ago today, June 18, 1634. When Governor John Winthrop and his company arrived in Charlestown, with the king's charter, on June 18, 1630, they had found the peninsula without human habitation, except for the little cottage of the Rev. William Blaxton, a clergyman of the English Church. The English settlers at first called the peninsula Trimountaine, or Tremont, but in September, 1630, it was ordered that the name be changed to Boston. The aboriginal inhabitants had been devastated by the plague, but in 1634, an Indian Sachem laid claim to the site of the city, alleging that it had been the property of his grandfather. In order to avoid trouble with the red-skins, the settlers paid a small sum for the property, on condition that they be left in peace. The name of Boston was chosen in honor of Isaac Johnson, one of the foremost of Winthrop's company, who hailed from the English town of Boston.

GAME LAWS.

The first game laws for the protection of wild animals and birds were enacted on this date in 1068 by William the Conqueror. This decree of the Norman King was called a forest law, but its principal purpose was the preservation of game. Forfeiture of property was made the penalty for killing or disabling any kind of wild beast, while the slayer of a stag, buck or boar, if convicted, had his eyes put out. These laws, of course, applied only to the masses, since the royalty and nobility were permitted to kill as much as they pleased. In fact the principal purpose of the pioneer "game laws" was to provide sport for the few.

Sixth Sense in Dogs?

A seven-year-old collie recently returned to a farm in the Cumberland fells from Liverpool, a hundred miles away. No satisfactory explanation has ever been offered for this faculty, though some people ventured the opinion that the dog has a kind of second sight, of which humans know nothing.

Mussolini and Cabinet Remain

Italian Premier May Have Submitted
Resignation, but He and Cabinet
Still Function—Fascist Militia
Patrol Streets.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, June 18.—Black shirted Fascist militia men patrolled the streets today while police searched for further participants in the kidnapping and killing of Socialist Deputy Giacomo Matteotti and government leaders conferred to determine whether there should be further revisions in the Mussolini cabinet.

Signor Finzi, former chief of the government press bureau, sent a letter to the Giornale D'Italia, denying he had financed anti-Socialist newspapers. He charged that the policy of the press bureau was controlled by Premier Mussolini.

Under-Secretary Acerbe issued a statement saying if there were abuses in the press bureau, he was not any way responsible.

If, as rumored Tuesday, Premier Mussolini offered his resignation to King Victor Emmanuel, it has not been accepted. The Mussolini cabinet is functioning as usual.

Police were reported to have found a trunk belonging to the leader of the Matteotti kidnapping band, containing a blood stained knife and pieces of blood soaked cloth. Investigation is underway to determine if the cloth is part of the clothing worn by the Socialist deputy when he was seized and carried off by five men on June 9.

Inspectors Guard Consuming Public

Against Food Which Is Unwholesome, Decomposed or Unfit for Consumption—State-wide Inspection of Milk.

Seizure of hams and pork loins, totaling in weight 2,300 pounds, in a cold storage warehouse in Troy by inspectors of the department of farms and markets, which were condemned and destroyed as unfit for human consumption, has been reported to Commissioner Berne A. Pyke.

The department is authorized by law to "seize and condemn any food in cold storage which is found to be unfit for human consumption," and inspectors acted under this law in condemning meat products found in the cold storage warehouse in Troy.

While the department was authorized under the law, previous to the last session of the legislature, to seize and condemn articles of food unfit for human consumption found in cold storage, the department had no power to seize and destroy meat food which might be offered for sale in a place other than a cold storage plant. At the 1924 session, legislation was enacted which empowered the department to "seize, destroy or condemn any food, any unwholesome food or food products sold or exposed for sale on the markets of this state, or any food or food products consisting in whole or part of any filthy, decomposed or putrid animal or vegetable substance."

Commissioner Pyke pointed out that the inspectors of the department are constantly on the alert in guarding the consuming public against food which is unwholesome, decomposed or unfit for consumption. The commissioner stated that this branch of the department activities is most important, since it affords protection to consumers who in many cases fail to exercise caution in making purchases.

Department of farms and markets inspectors in inspecting a cold storage plant in Troy found a quantity of hams and pork loins which examination showed were in a decomposed and putrid condition. A report was immediately submitted to the department and the entire lot, consisting of about 2,300 pounds, was condemned, ordered seized and destroyed. The meat was taken out of the warehouse to a rendering plant, where it was manufactured into fertilizer.

In further giving protection to the food supply, the department has promulgated a state-wide inspection with regard to milk served in restaurants and lunch rooms. As a result of this many warnings have been issued to owners to exercise care in handling and serving of milk in order to give assurance that there is the required amount of butterfat.

The department has found that, due to improper handling or stirring, a lack of uniformity is likely to exist. Samples taken by department inspectors indicate that one patron may receive a glass of milk rich in fat, while glasses sold to others may be low in fat content. If the milk is kept in a large container this is often due to the fact that fat rises to the top and the milk has not been stirred before serving. Investigation by the department has shown the advantage of serving milk in individual bottles, and when a proper method of bottling is followed, an unadulterated product is assured.

Electric Hen's Daily Hatch

New Hatchery Operated by Electricity Produces 25,000 Chicks a Day—Latest Word in Artificial Incubation.

Undoubtedly the largest electrical chicken-hatching plant in the world is located at Petaluma, Cal., where a great new hatchery is rapidly being completed which will house an electric hen capable of "covering" 508,000 eggs at one setting. That would indeed be the talk of the barnyard if it could be visualized before the eyes of the common two-legged variety of hen.

The Petaluma hatchery is electric throughout, and its new plant will be able to ship 25,000 chicks daily. The output for a single season is three million chicks. Thirty of the largest egg farms in the vicinity are kept busy supplying eggs for this hatchery.

The owner of this super-hen studied electric incubation for two years, both in this country and abroad, and finally came to the conclusion that hatching by electricity is the last word in artificial incubation. He holds that it produces a sturdier, healthier chick and one that matures more rapidly to the producing age.

Throughout the heavy hatching season, from the first of February until June, the temperature in each of the twelve hundred incubators is maintained at 103 degrees without the slightest variation. In the new plant of this hatchery, electric heaters are to be installed in the offices, so that it will be an all-electrical plant, using no other kind of fuel except electricity.

Think "Tubby St." "Too Plebeian"

Some of Its Residents Desire to For-sake Name That Represents Something to High Sounding Appellation.

The question of whether part of Tubby street should be renamed Elmwood Place caused a slight ripple in the placid current of the common council meeting at the city hall Tuesday evening when a petition was read from some of the property owners.

The petition read: "We, the undersigned property owners, do hereby petition that the name of that portion of Tubby street extending from East Chester street to Hemlock avenue be changed and that it hereafter be designated as Elmwood Place." It was signed by William W. Windrum and Emma Windrum of No. 12 Tubby street; H. Hall and Maud O. Hall of 16 Tubby street; Industrial Home per Sara S. Brigham, president, and Charlotte Martinelli.

Alderman James J. Sweeney of the Third ward, in which ward Tubby street is located, said that he objected to the petition. "I don't see where that lady had any right to sign for the Industrial Home," he said. "I have dug into the situation and as I understand it old Mr. Tubby was held in high respect when he was living and if he was respected then, he should be now, and the name of the street should not be changed. Only a few people want it changed. They tried to get all the property owners on the street to sign, and when they wouldn't, they want to change just a part of the street to Elmwood Place."

Alderman Schlip moved that the petition be referred to the board of public works.

Alderman Van Wageningen of the First ward objected and amended that it be tabled. The amendment was unanimously adopted.

The petition will now lie on the table until some one moves to take it up and act upon it.

Other matters taken up at the common council session will be found elsewhere.

May Raise Rates For Parcels Post

President Believes Government Should Pay As It Goes and Mail Users Approximately Pay Cost of Service.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 18.—Increases in postage rates—especially on parcels post—appear inevitable in view of the principle laid down by President Coolidge that the users of the mail should "approximately pay the cost of the service."

The postal revenues last year were $32,000,000 less than the cost of operating the post office department. A deficit resulted, which was made up out of the other revenues in the treasury.

President Coolidge is opposed to this kind of business method in the government. He wants to pay as he goes, and therefore believes that the logical thing to do is to make everyone buy more stamps.

Under the law, the postmaster general has the authority, with the approval of the interstate commerce commission, to increase the parcels post rates. The commission is given final decision in the matter, because the government operates the parcels post parallel with the commercial express companies and is, in fact, in direct competition with them. The commission fixes the express rates and has the same power over the parcels post rates.

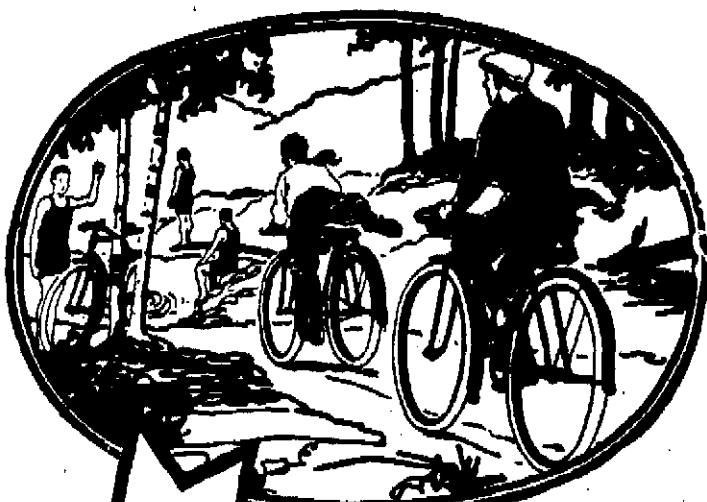

Cost of Operation Sought.
The post office department is now engaged, as the president pointed out in his message to congress, in an investigation to ascertain the cost of operating the postal service.

"This inquiry has been prosecuted with diligence and is nearing completion," the president said. "When the results are available they will form the basis for an intelligent consideration by the postmaster general and by congress of all questions relating to the adequacy or inadequacy of postage rates. They will afford a proper basis for consideration of the relation of the cost of the postal service and the revenues derived therefrom. The time has arrived to consider putting the postal service on a sound business basis so concerned."

It is expected that when the revision of postal rates comes up in congress the question of adjusting the salaries of postal employees—as assistant postmasters, inspectors, railroad mail clerks, etc.—will be considered at the same time. This is in accord with the desire of the president, who does not believe that the rates should be increased solely for the purpose of raising the salaries of government employees.

"Real" Earnings Have Increased

Despite the Curtailment of Industry National Industrial Conference Board's Latest Figures on Employment Conditions Show Further Declines.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 18.—A further recession in manufacturing activity is shown by the latest figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board of 247 Park avenue. Although there was no significant change in earnings in April, employment declined 2.5 per cent from the preceding month and the average hours of work fell off nearly half an hour a week. From approximately 1,700 plants which furnished data to the board, 10 reported a shut-down in April and 150 others were working less than normal hours.

Average hourly earnings of all wage earners dropped slightly from 56.1 cents in March to 56 cents in April. Fifteen industries reported decreases, in seven there were increases and one showed no change. For the most part declines were small. Hourly earnings in leather tanning and wool dropped rather sharply. Lumber and mill work was the only class in which a noticeable increase occurred.

Average weekly earnings of all wage earners declined from $26.89 in March to $26.67 in April. In 16 industries weekly earnings decreased, in six they increased and in one there was no change. Except declines in silk and wool and increases in lumber and mill work and paper and pulp, changes in weekly earnings were not significant.

An upward movement was noticeable in "real" earnings, or the purchasing value of money earnings, due to the drop in the cost of living between March and April. "Real" weekly earnings of all those employed in April stood 32 per cent higher than in July, 1914.

Total employment again fell off, the index number based on June, 1920, dropping from 84.8 to 82.7. Marked declines in employment were reported in the following industries: Agricultural implements, automobile, boot and shoe, chemicals, cotton manufacturing, meat packing and silk. Only three industries showed increases.

A further reduction from 47.8 to 47.4 in the weekly hours of work per wage earner between March and April is an additional indication of curtailed manufacturing activity, the National Industrial Conference Board shows. This marks a drop of more than two hours as compared with April, 1923 and nearly an hour between February and April, 1924. The industries reporting the most considerable reductions in hours of work were boot and shoe, hosiery, iron and steel, silk and wool.

City Needs Three Bus Terminals

Chamber of Commerce Submits Petition Asking That the Present Three Terminals Be Continued and Cost Prorated Among Bus Owners.

Secretary Louis S. Coe of the Chamber of Commerce appeared before the common council Tuesday evening and filed a petition signed by a number of the business interests of the city requesting that the present three bus terminals be continued inasmuch as they were needed and should be maintained and the cost prorated among the bus owners.

Secretary Coe explained that the downtown terminal seemed to run itself. The central bus terminal was maintained by the city and the uptown bus terminal had been maintained by the Chamber of Commerce. Recently the Kingston Hotel had been purchased by the Ross Stores, Inc., which owns the Van Wagenen Company, and Mr. Rudderham of the Van Wagenen Company had met with the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce to talk over the matter.

The Van Wagenen Company wanted to renew the lease for the terminal at a rental of $600, but the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce did not believe that the organization should pay that much. For that reason it was thought that the cost of maintaining terminals might be prorated among the bus owners as was done in other cities.

Mr. Rudderham, who was present, also spoke briefly and stated that the uptown bus terminal was a necessity.

On motion of Alderman Schlip the matter was referred to the bus committee and the corporation counsel.

Alderman Smith's resolution that the common council join with the mayor in the petition to the public service commission for permission to cross the Ulster & Delaware and the New York, Ontario & Western railroad tracks while the present Higginville bridge is being replaced by a steel bridge was adopted.

The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper boards:

Alderman Nelce—That board of public works notify property owner at Clinton avenue and Liberty street to relay sidewalk on Liberty street side of the property.

Alderman Seitz—That board of public works construct catch basin at Ravine street and Strand; repair ruts in Hone street at Abel street; repair steps on Ridge street, and cut weeds on German street.

Alderman Smith—That Court avenue be filled in and placed in good condition.

Alderman James J. Sweeney—That holes in East Chester street be filled; that Lincoln street be repaved; that incandescent light be placed on Lincoln street; that Grant street be made passable; that Stephan street be repaved.

The council then adjourned.

Frank Dudenhausen of No. 119 Linderman avenue, through his attorney, Frank W. Brooks, has filed a claim for $10,000 damages against the city for injuries received in an auto accident on Washington avenue on May 16 of this year. The claim was made at the meeting of the common council Tuesday evening and referred to Corporation Counsel James Jenkins. Mr. Dudenhausen alleges that the accident was caused by a hole in the pavement and that while driving along Washington avenue his auto struck this hole, resulting in its leaving the road and upset and causing him to sustain severe injuries.

DO YOU INTEND TO WEAR A WIDE LEATHER BELT?

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

With the inconsistency for which fashion is noted, wide leather belts have rather suddenly burst upon the horizon at a time when we were attuning ourselves to the idea that a belt was a superfluous sort of thing.

The lady of this decoration, shows that she has taken time for the forelock and provided herself not only with a wide leather belt, but a plaid gingham sports jacket to wear with it. Both are timely suggestions, and as useful separately as they are together: the wide belt having a natural affinity for the straight-line flannel sports frock. This is, as the world must now know, the big success of the season. Suit interest, as well as the one or two piece dress response is for flannel, white, sky blue and blossom pink. Yellow having been in favor for a season or two, is more often worn than either of the other colors; there are, however, more than two little girls in blue at any summer gathering and an increasing number of pink and apricot clad ones. Nor is red flannel despised by any means.

The jacket worn may be of Scotch plaid flannel instead of gingham, the real point being—have a plaid jacket and have a wide patent leather, red or some sort of modish looking belt to wear when the spirit moves you; though it may be worn without.

Not all belts are wide, but the smartest of them seem to be. They usually bear no relation to the costume with which they are worn and are relied upon to supply color.

While some of the smartest skirt makers report an interest and demand for circular models, the pleated crepe sports skirt shows every indication of imitating Tennyson's untiring brook. There is also a third entry, this being the wrap skirt which is seamless and folds over usually at the side but sometimes at the back.

A white flannel skirt is almost a necessity just now, for with tunics as much in favor as they are it is a foolish woman who will not avail herself of the opportunity of wearing the practical waist and skirt combination, particularly since it does not involve any complications around the waistline. Many of the smartest pleated skirts have a false hem of contrasting color, pleated with the skirt and matching up, of course, with the hat, belt and sometimes stockings. The ensemble of three-piece idea is as important a factor in sports, as in dress circles, a three-quarter flannel coat being a valuable asset just now. It may be in one of the delicate pink, blue or yellow tones, or a vivid purple or rich tomato red.

Ears That Hear Not—and Why

State Health Commissioner Gives Health Talk on Proper Care of Ears, Which are Like Delicate Machine.

The subject of an instructive health talk, broadcast recently by Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., state commissioner of health, from Station WGY at Schenectady was "Ears That Hear Not—and Why." Dr. Nicoll explained some of the causes of deafness and gave five simple rules, observance of which will do much to prevent deafness.

"First don't try to remove ear wax with anything but a soft cloth," he said.

"Second, teach children not to put anything in their ears; buttons, peas and other small articles have sometimes caused deafness.

"Third, if an insect becomes lodged in the ear, try flooding it with warm water; if this fails, seek medical advice.

"Fourth, if tonsils become diseased or if signs of adenoids such as mouth breathing become apparent, have an examination made by a competent physician; if necessary have such diseased tissue removed.

"Fifth, if earache develops or any deafness appears, consult a physician without delay. To avoid complications, ear infections should be treated properly in the early stages. Expert treatment when deafness first develops offers the only hope of cure."

Collect Sound Besides Dust.

After expressing the hope that those who were listening to the radio talk had and would continue to have good hearing, Dr. Nicoll said, "when one speaks of the ear it is but natural to think of that part of the ear which we see and the sole function of which aside from acting as a dust catcher is to collect sound waves and deflect them into the interior parts of the ear. A knowledge of the construction of the unseen parts of our hearing apparatus will help us to understand better why when the ear becomes diseased and what some of the causes of deafness are."

"At the bottom of the central canal leading from the outer ear is a tightly drawn membrane which from its appearance and the work which it does it called the ear drum. Back of this drum is the middle ear in which are a number of small bones so arranged that when one moves all move. The tip of one of these bones rests on the inner side of the ear drum. If you will examine the diaphragm of your phonograph—that part just above where the needle rests on the record—you will find a very similar construction. In fact, both the inventor of the phonograph and the inventor of the telephone have apparently patterned their instruments as nearly as possible so as to transmit sound in the same general manner as the human ear."

Avoid Probing for Wax.

"Anything which prevents the free movement of the small bones of the ear or any perforation, thickening or destruction of the ear drum or any clogging of the outer canal of the ear will cause a loss of hearing, greater or less, according to the amount of interference with the passage of the sound waves."

"The outer canal of the ear contains a sticky wax. This serves the purpose of catching dust, dirt and small insects which may enter the ear."

"Pins, toothpicks, matches or other sharp articles should never be introduced into the ear for the purpose of removing accumulations of wax as they may puncture or otherwise injure the ear drum. By the action of the jaws, the wax gradually works its way forward and drops into the outer shell of the ear. If it appears desirable to cleanse the canal the best way is to insert a soft wet cloth twisted to a point."

Earache Means Infection.

"Earache is regarded by some parents as one of the common disorders of childhood and nature is often allowed to take her course, with possibly the application of heat or warmed sweet oil dropped into the ear in an effort to lessen the pain. It is far wiser to call a physician as soon as any earache develops. Pain in the ear with or without fever means an infection and infection of these delicate structures is serious. If a physician is called and he finds the eardrum bulging he will make a tiny hole and allow the fluid causing the pressure to escape. If this is not done, oftentimes the eardrum will rupture of itself which results in a tearing of this delicate membrane and later in some cases in permanent deafness. If the ear is not lanced and the drum does not rupture of itself the infected fluid may be forced into the thin bony structure back of the ear, resulting in the dreaded condition known as mastoiditis. In such cases a very delicate and dangerous operation is usually necessary to prevent the infection from reaching the brain."

Healthy Throats Discourage Deafness.

"We have said enough to indicate that it is not safe to let ear infections take their course, or to attempt to treat them with simple home remedies if medical help is available. A word should now be said as to how such infections may be prevented."

"From the middle ear there extends down into the throat back of the palate a small tube known as the Eustachian tube. Its purpose is to allow air to enter the middle ear so that the air pressure on the two sides of the drum will be the same."

"So long as the tonsils and the lining of the throat around the Eustachian tube are in a healthy condition the middle ear is not likely to become infected. But if the tonsils become diseased and if adenoids grow in the arched space back of the nose and mouth, and particularly if they grow around the opening of the Eustachian tube, then infection is liable to pass up the tube especially when the individual has a cold involving the nose or throat. Middle ear infection may thus follow an attack of measles, scarlet fever, or other disease."

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

A. F. B. F. Submits Agricultural Platform

An agricultural platform outlined by the American Farm Bureau Federation has been submitted to the national political parties by that organization. The American Federation has a membership of over a million farmers, 40,000 in New York state.

The main plank in the platform follows: "The party pledges to take whatever steps that may be necessary to bring the purchasing power of agriculture back to normal. Owing to the nature of the business the turnover in agriculture is slow and with the discriminating arbiters enjoyed by industry, transportation, finance, labor and other interests, recovery has been impossible. Farm plans are not easily altered with the uncertainties of the markets. This has resulted in the relation between agriculture and most of the other national groups becoming dislocated. Every effort should be made to bring back into proper articulation the relationship between agriculture—the biggest of all of our industries—and our various other interests."

Other planks cover the price level on agricultural products, co-operative marketing, international trade, interest rates, taxation, water power development, public roads and highways, railroads.

Fruit Growers Annual Meeting Postponed.

The annual meeting of the Western New York Fruit Growers' Co-operative Packing association was postponed from June 10 to Saturday, June 21. The meeting will be held on that date at the Hotel Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., commencing at 10 a. m., according to an announcement from N. R. Peet, general manager.

Postponement was made, it is explained, because many growers are spraying at this time and are behind with spring planting.

An invitation to all the growers and their families has been extended by the directors of the association. It is requested that landlords bring their tenants, and when more than one person is interested in a farm, that both persons be present at the meeting.

Third Dairy Conference Called for July 28

The third conference of the Dairy Committee of 15 has been called for June 28. This committee is composed of representatives of the various milk producers' associations in New York state. The aim of the committee is to arrive at a mutual program which will stabilize the dairy industry in this state. John J. Dillon, editor of the Rural New Yorker, called the first conference and appointed the committee.

G. L. F. Calls Local Shareholders' Meetings

Several county meetings of the G. L. F. shareholders have been called for this summer, according to an announcement by H. E. Babcock, general manager of the Exchange. The first three meetings scheduled in New York state are at Wyoming county on June 26, Orange county on June 28 and Warren county on July 1st.

Wing R. Smith, wellknown as a national Holstein breeder, died of acute indigestion on June 8.

Mr. Smith was for twenty-eight years treasurer of the Holstein-Friesian association of America. He was returning from the annual convention of that organization when he was taken ill.

His home was in Onondaga county, near Syracuse.

Fruit Pools Are Closed

All fruit pools have been closed and final sales remittance blanks have been sent to the treasurers of the local packing houses. It is stated by the officers of the Western New York Fruit Growers' Co-operative Packing association, Inc. Locals are now making a distribution of returns to members.

Veteran Keystone Sacker Still Playing Brilliantly

Eight Spitballers on Major League Teams

How long will it be before the spitball becomes a thing of the past in the major leagues?

When legislation was passed against the use of the spitball 21 twirlers in the big show were using it.

These pitchers were given the right to continue its use during the remainder of their career in the majors.

The number of pitchers still using the moist delivery has dwindled to eight. Seven of them are right-handers, one a southpaw.

In all probability Urban Shocker of the Browns will be the last to pass out. Shocker has a great repertoire aside from the spitball, which he uses only occasionally.

No pitcher in the major leagues mixes them up more than Shocker, conserving his strength at all times.

Vassar's Jump Champ

Helen Chapman of Evanston, Ill., is sprint and broad jump champion at Vassar college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. She does 100 yards in 12 seconds flat, and her broad jump record is 14 feet 11 1/4 inches. She is a remarkable girl athlete.

Baseball Disputes Less Under Judge K. M. Landis

There are fewer misunderstandings in baseball today than when he entered the office of baseball commissioner asserts Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis. Judge Landis also expressed the opinion that "more youngsters are coming into the big leagues in recent years."

"While there are fewer baseball disputes for me to decide," he said, "there are many more questions put up to me. I am asked everything conceivable about baseball; the game, the teams, the players, the managers." "But I am glad it is that way," he added.

Joe Gans Was Greatest

Tex Rickard, in his syndicated memoirs, expressed the opinion that Abe Attell was the greatest fighter he had ever seen. Many other veteran critics have said the same thing. Attell, naturally, might feel flattered, but he refuses to accept the nomination. He claims that if every nice thing said about him could be increased by 100 per cent it would not fit the greatest fighter of all times—Joe Gans.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

St. Louis parochial school baseball league has 23 teams enrolled.

Frank Gibson, holdout catcher of the Boston Braves, has come to terms.

From early indications, the Toledo Mud Hens will not fly very high this season.

Cleveland led the American league for a few days during the two weeks of last season.

A batted ball which hits the home plate is not dead, but fair or foul, as it happens to roll.

The infield strength appears to be the outstanding feature of the Boston Braves this season.

The Senators have returned Pitcher Fred Wingfield to the Chattanooga Southern association club.

A former big league pitcher has been adjudged insane and a New York writer says he wasn't a southpaw.

Two weeks after Filpo declared he had fought his last battle, he announced his intention of getting married.

The man who has fixed seven punctures during the winter won't be at a loss when he wishes to address the umpire.

Next to being released by the Cardinals the greatest boost that can come to a National league pitcher is to be dismissed by the Giants.

Mike Gazella, former Lafayette college star sent to Minneapolis by the Yankees, is playing third base for the Millers with considerable success.

Dominick Martina, brother of Joe, former New Orleans pitcher, and now a member of the Washington team, has signed with the Brookhaven team of the Cotton State league.

Thomas Long, left-handed pitcher of the Brooklyn Nationals, was released to the Mobile club of the Southern association, from which he was purchased last fall.

If good pitching coaches mean a thing, the Washington rookie twirlers should profit greatly. In Nick Altrock and Jack Chesbro, the Nationals have two old-time stars to tutor the recruits.

Pitcher Ferguson of the Boston Red Sox has added a new move to his pitching delivery. He wiggles the hand as if waving at you, when the pitching arm is high in the air. The idea, of course, is to confuse the batter.

Boren on Olympic Team

Boren, University of California star athlete, who will probably wear the "Stars and Stripes" on the running shirt in the Olympics in Paris this summer. Boren took second place in the United States college meet and first place in the Olympic club meet. His best jump was 24 feet 1 1/4 inches, made in the Illinois meet.

James Hogg, Scottish poet and friend of Sir Walter Scott, is known as the "Ettrick Shepherd" from his birthplace and his early calling. At the age of twenty he was well known as a song writer.

Pitching Duel Was Result of Accident

While columns, in fact, pages, have been written about the famous pitching duel between Ed Walsh and Addie Joss in Cleveland, October 2, 1908, it remained for Ed Walsh, the other day, to tell something new, which was to the effect that neither he nor Joss was notified he was going to pitch that memorable afternoon until just before the game, writes Henry P. Edwards in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Addie and I were sitting on the roll of canvas that afternoon wondering who was going to pitch, neither of us figuring he would work before the next afternoon. I remember one of the photographers came along and snapped us. A moment later Fielder Jones told me to get ready and right away Nap Lajoie told Addie he was elected."

And then, Walsh went out and fanned 15 men in eight innings and Joss did not let a batter reach first.

Pennsylvania Bars All Athletes With Degrees

The athletic council of the University of Pennsylvania recently passed a rule barring all athletes who have received a degree from representing Pennsylvania in athletics. At the same meeting five minor sports were dropped from the list of games recognized by the university. These minor sports are ice hockey, polo, cricket, rifle shooting and trap shooting.

The passing of the degree rule sets at rest a point of contention that has existed at Pennsylvania for years. The rule was passed in 1914, rescinded in 1917, passed again in 1920, but amended on a reciprocity basis.

Many of his drives were 250 to 280 yards during the 18 holes played.

Wilhelm used the lively ball.

Getting Ready for Friday's Race

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New London, Conn., June 18.—Both Yale and Harvard adherents are jubilant today over the showing made by the crews, "tuning up" in the trials for the annual race next Friday.

The varsity eight spun over the four mile course last night in a test which Coach Leader said was "merely a paddle," and not a test of speed, and, while the time was said to have been faster than in preceding trials, the official time was kept secret.

Harvard's four crews also practiced short stretches and starts.

Leopold, "Moral Monstrosity"

So Called by Aliens Who Say That
Loeb, as Tool of Pal, May Deserve Leniency.

Dr. Perry B. Lichtenstein, physician at Tombs prison, New York city, and well known alienist and writer on criminology, has written an interesting analysis of the wealthy Leopold and Loeb boys, self-confessed slayers of the Franks boy at Chicago.

Dr. Lichtenstein says:
It is often difficult to distinguish between badness and madness, particularly when moral defectiveness is being considered. A moral defectiveness is not a fully insane, unless such defect is part of a true insane condition or associated with imbecility or idiocy so as to render the subject incapable of sound judgment and reasoning.

Such is not the case as concerns Leopold and Loeb. Both are above the average in intelligence, and the latter appears to be unusually clever. He is however, a moral monster.

Facts in the case lead me to believe that Leopold was the stronger, dominating mind, and that Loeb was but a tool who feared and worshipped Leopold and was willing to do anything that was requested of him. From my experience in observing moral defectives I believe Loeb worshipped Leopold as a hero. Leopold had for years shown that his victims go as to get their money. He in fact married the daughter with the object in view of gaining control of her parents' wealth after their death, when all the money would become hers. Leopold and Loeb planned for months to kill some child. They planned every detail, even to the hiring of a car, writing letters, etc.

Waite was an educated man, a dentist. He was pleasing in disposition and a favorite in his home town. Both Leopold and Loeb have pleasing personalities, and were well liked. Waite took real pleasure in telling of the various steps in the murder.

Loeb is Wretched.

Leopold and Loeb, particularly the former, seemed to be unaffected and in fact showed considerable bravado. Waite was found sane and electrocuted.

Loeb, away from the influence and domination of Leopold, is like a person awakening from a dream.

He says:
"I want to say that I offer no excuse, but that I am fully convinced that neither the idea nor the act he was morally weak. Excessive drinking and his boasts concerning the same, the killing of birds and impaling of insects are all evidences of a morally weak nature."

Evil Associates.

What about the theory that home environment is the most potent cause in the production of criminals? Here are two boys who had everything their hearts desired. Their parents were respectable people. The boys were given a liberal education. Everything was done to make them useful citizens, and yet, with what results? To what are we to attribute their acts? In order to derive the benefits of an education and to become a useful citizen it is necessary for the moral sense to be inborn.

Will power and self control must be inherent. In other words the seed must have the proper soil in order to produce the best result. It matters not what the environment be, what efforts the parents make to aid the child, nor does it matter what the facilities for education are.

If the moral sense is not inborn the child will not be a moral citizen. Immorality may, however, be the result of evil associations, and it is my opinion that this is true of Loeb. The morally defective individual may have absolutely no motive for his acts and the crime he commits may bring him no benefit. He never stops to think that it is against the law, that it will bring disgrace and agony to his parents.

Cites Waite Case.

It is strange that so much of moral defectiveness is found among the educated. For brutality and utter disregard for humanity and moral principles there is no better comparison to the Franks case than is the case of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, who killed both his mother-in-law and father-in-law and had planned to kill his wife when he was apprehended. Compare the two. Waite planned for months to slay would have occurred to me had it not been for the suggestion and stimulus of Leopold. Furthermore, I don't believe I would have been capable of killing Franks."

He is wretched and cannot seem to understand how he was ever persuaded to engage in such an act. Leopold cares little for death. He loves notoriety, and I will make the prediction that if he receives the extreme penalty he will not shrink when the fatal moment arrives.

Our system of education is in great measure the cause of moral defectiveness in the young. Too much attention is paid to the development of the mentality, whereas no attention is paid to moral development. Children are so overburdened with work that they have little time for play.

Would Be Sane Here.

The result is that they become egotistic and neurotic. A neurotic child readily adopts immoral practices. There is no doubt that were the crime committed in New York both boys would be declared sane.

They knew the nature and quality of their act and knew the difference between right and wrong. This is proven by their careful preparations, their intent and the precautions taken to avoid detection. They were

Olympic Team, at Sea, Works Hard

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

On board the S. S. America, with the American Olympic team, June 18 (By Radio).—A calm sea and balmy weather gave the American athletes bound for Paris an excellent chance for another workout today and most of them took advantage of it.

The coaches warned the athletes that they are still candidates for the United States team and must be perfectly fit when they reach Paris. The men must retire at 10:45 and get up at 7:30.

Wayne Johnson, Verne Booth, J. E. Lermond and Michael Devaney, all distance runners, are keeping their muscles supple by deck jogs.

Loren Murchison is not doing much work. He is under weight and wants to fatten up a bit. Jole Ray, Charlie Paddock and other sprinters are taking things easy.

Two ambitious athletes who stowed away were found and set at work today. Layton, a hurdler, will be given a chance as an alternate, and F. N. Knowka, an old time walker, was given a place with the crew.

The athletes are entirely pleased by the arrangements on shipboard, and the morale of the men is excellent. Food accommodations are fine, adapted to any kind of diet or appetite. Large tanks of sterilized water are being carried for drinking purposes.

AMERICAN WOMAN TENNIS CHAMPION DEFEATED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wimbledon, England, June 18—Miss Helen Willis, American woman tennis champion, was defeated this afternoon in her first singles match abroad when she met Mrs. B. C. Covell in the British-American women's team matches for the Wightman cup. Mrs. Covell won in straight sets, 6-2.

With Suzanne Lenglen, the French star, studying her every move, Helen Willis had her first real test on the courts since coming to England.

"I intend to watch the matches in which Miss Willis plays in order especially to study Miss Willis' style of play," Miss Lenglen said. "I am anxious to get acquainted with her. I anticipate a great game if we meet in the Wimbledon tourney."

Miss Lenglen expressed the hope that the Wightman Cup matches would develop into a sort of Davis Cup event for women.

Yale Confers Many Degrees.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Haven, Conn., June 18—Many distinguished men today received honorary degrees from Yale University during the 223d commencement exercises held in Woolsey Hall in the presence of several thousand invited guests today. Besides the 15 honorary degrees, the University conferred 784 degrees in course, while forty students received commissions in the officers' reserve, U. S. A.

Learned Most From Man.

"I'm mighty sorry William Johnston isn't with the American tennis team here this year," Miss Lenglen declared today. "I wanted to watch him play because I've learned more from watching him playing than I have from seeing any other player in the world."

not suffering from delusions or hallucinations and were in no way dominated by such factors in committing the act.

They are above the average in intelligence. Concerning their present mental state I am of the opinion, taking into consideration all the facts so far published, that they are able to consult with their counsel in the preparation of their defense. This would make them legally sane in our state. If leniency is shown it should be toward Loeb. He was the tool of the moral monstrosity Leopold.

Ready to Discard Unit Rule Also

South Supporters Say Democratic Convention Must Throw It Overboard If Two-thirds Rule Is Abrogated.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—Two time-honored Democratic institutions—the two-thirds nominating rule and the unit rule—are going to be checked into the Madison Square Garden arena at the national convention here next week if any attempt is made to tinker with either of them.

Supporters of Governor Al Smith made this emphatic today in retaliation for the efforts that are persistently being made by William G. McAdoo's supporters to abolish the two-thirds rule, under which it would be necessary for the winning candidate to get 732 of the 1,093 delegates.

The unit rule has been a bone of contention at every Democratic convention in recent years, but the convention has always upheld it. Under its provisions, whichever candidate controls the majority of a delegation gets the complete vote.

Smith Camp to Fight Back.
The Smith forces do not want either rule disturbed, but if McAdoo, whose adherents are admittedly in control of the convention organization, succeeds in abolishing the two-thirds rule, then they are going to fight for the abolition of the unit rule along with it.

The attitude of the Smith camp was indicated by Franklin D. Roosevelt, the governor's pre-convention manager. "There is grave doubt," said Roosevelt, "whether in any contest, political or athletic, the rules should be changed after the contestants are at the barrier and ready to start—unless, of course, it can be shown that the old rule is operating against the best interests of the party."

"Abolish Both or Leave Both."
Already assured of the big delegations of New York, Pennsylvania, most of Illinois and the smaller delegations of New Jersey, Wisconsin, Maryland, Rhode Island, Connecticut and at least part of Massachusetts, they figure that save for the unit rule, Governor Smith could pick up enough delegates in western states, now controlled by McAdoo, to put the governor on even footing with McAdoo. If not give him an actual majority. Hence their answer to McAdoo: "Abolish 'em both, or leave 'em both."

Expose Iniquities of System.
Smith's managers demonstrated by actual figures today that it was mathematically possible under the unit rule, for fourteen delegates to nominate a candidate, and cited this as one of its iniquities. Fourteen of the largest states could put a majority of the convention 550 votes. Suppose, said the Smith people, McAdoo controlled each delegation by the narrow margin of one vote, then fourteen delegates would decide the issue.

Older Leaders Predict No Change.
With this preliminary skirmish between the McAdoo and Smith camps, the older leaders of the party predicted that neither rule would be altered. But that the skirmish is indicative of how closely the two leading candidates are figuring. Both sides received encouraging news from the "front" today. While McAdoo managers who came east with him dropped in to assure headquarters that the receptions accorded McAdoo across the country were "magnificent," Senator Royal S. Copeland returned from a several days' tour of New England and reported to Smith headquarters that New England was "on fire for Al."

New York, June 18.—Four men and a boy are under arrest today as the result of three raids by Federal narcotic agents who seized $200,000 in drugs and narrowly escaped injury when a bomb exploded in their midst.

Houses on the lower East Side also were raided.

Good Prices at Merritt Sale

Clinton Avenue and Lowland Properties Sold at Auction in Partition Action—Kingston Lumber Corporation Buys Lowlands.

John W. Eckert as referee in the partition action brought by Grace V. Merritt against Charles H. Merritt and wife, the Ulster County Savings Institution, Elva H. Bogart and the Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association, sold at auction the front door of the court house today three parcels of land.

Parcel number one which includes the vacant lot on the east side of Clinton avenue and the lowland property which is known as the Merritt farm, consisting of about 40 acres, was first offered for sale. Charles H. Merritt opened the bidding at $2,000. There is a mortgage of $2,200 held by the Ulster County Savings Institution on the premises and the sale was subject to this mortgage with interest. The price was run up rapidly at first between Grace V. Merritt and Charles H. Merritt until the latter dropped out of the bidding and Harcourt J. Pratt took up the bidding. The property was run up by bids which ranged from $5 to $100 until it was finally struck off to Harcourt J. Pratt for $15,000. The lands adjoin the property of the Kingston Lumber Company on Fair street in which Mr. Pratt is interested.

The second parcel offered for sale was the Merritt homestead, known as 325 Clinton avenue. Charles H. Merritt started off the bidding at $2,000. The residence property was sold subject to a first mortgage of $2,050 held by the Ulster County Savings Institution and a second mortgage of $1,100 held by Elva H. Bogart with interest from the first of the present year. The property was sold to Miss Grace V. Merritt who bid it in at $9,000.

The third and final parcel known as the old Voorhees homestead lot, now occupied by Sherwood Lodge, known as 317 Clinton avenue, was started off at $5,000 by Charles H. Merritt. This parcel was sold free and clear. After spirited bidding it was struck off to Miss Grace V. Merritt for $11,925.

Arthur C. Connelly appeared for William J. Henry Esser for Charles H. Merritt and wife; Philip Elting for the Ulster County Savings Institution; Virgil B. Van Wagoner for Elva H. Bogart and Judge Joseph M. Fowler for the Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association.

Rafferty-Clark.
Miss Eileen C. Clark of No. 14 Ora Place, and John B. Rafferty of No. 186 Main street were married at 11:45 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's Church. The Very Rev. Dean Joseph C. Cushman, rector of St. Joseph's church, officiated. The bridesmaids were John J. White and Anne C. White of 14 Ora Place. Prof. John Schwabach presided at the organ. A number of relatives and near friends attended the ceremony.

Piano and Song Recital.
A number of pupils from Arthur H. Snyder's piano class will give a recital on Thursday evening, June 26, at eight o'clock in Mr. Snyder's music studio. As usual each pupil has the privilege of inviting two or three guests from among their relatives and friends. While there are several pupils in the class, who have been unable to prepare a piano number for this recital they will also have the privilege of being present and inviting an equal number of friends. The program promises a delightful variety, through the assistance of Mrs. Ralph Glendening and Arthur M. Risenbury, who will sing several songs and vocal duets. Musical souvenirs will be presented to all who take part in the musical.

Westminster Guild Banquet.
The members of the Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian Church and their friends, to the number of fifty young ladies, enjoyed their annual banquet last evening in the church hall. The hall and tables were decorated with spring flowers and presented a very pleasing appearance. The banquet was served by the ladies of Circle No. 2. The regular meeting of the guild was held after the banquet. Miss Mildred Niles gave a very interesting book review on the "Leaven in Judaism" which was studied by the guild during the winter months. A short talk on Northfield was given by Miss Alma Tyler. The Westminster Guild is being represented at Northfield this year by the Misses Niement Hewitt, Katherine Terpening, Charlotte Gillet and Beatrice Brown. The reports of the Westminster Guild for the year were very satisfying and showed a very helpful as well as prosperous year. No further meetings will be held until September.

Expressive Phrase

The phrase, "Aye, aye, sir," is a heritage handed down from English-speaking mariners of past centuries. There is no other phrase that belongs so wholly and completely to the navy and to the sea. By saying, "Aye, aye, sir," when receiving the command of a superior, you express not only courtesy but you also made it known that you understand your duty.—Detroit News.

Aviators Will Hunt Couple in Wilds.

MISS HELEN COLE.

Aviators are searching through the desolate mountain lake region of New Jersey for Helen Cole, California sculptress, and Charles Carter, a friend. They left a house party several days ago, clad in evening dress, to find and make shelter for themselves and get enough food to sustain life, as did the hero and heroine of a recent novel by Arthur Stringer. Fears were felt for their safety.

Discovers Three-Inch Shell Caused Leak in Roof

New York.—How did a three-inch shell become imbedded in the roof of Thomas H. Elliott's home, at 656 Second avenue, Astoria?

Mr. Elliott wants to know, partly because he would like to collect damages from the artilleryman and partly because he wants him safely locked up before he can plant another among the shingles. The police want to know because it sounds suspicious.

Why the shell did not explode is as much a mystery as its origin. The projectile was discovered when Mr. Elliott went up to see why the roof, still less than a month old, did not keep out the rain.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—The stock market showed an irregular trend at the opening today, but price movements were narrow and devoid of significance. Business was in restricted volume.

U. S. Steel was unchanged. Copper was steady. Oils opened rather heavy. Railway shares were irregular.

Stocks disclosed comparative steadiness in the forenoon trading. Speculators working for a reaction on the assumption that the setback experienced toward the previous close had not been sufficient to correct the somewhat weakened position of the list created by eight consecutive sessions of steadily mounting prices, received little encouragement from the action of the general market.

Additional profit taking was clearly visible in various directions but offerings were taken without price to the furtherance of yesterday's realizing process. Stocks started slightly irregular. Professionals in an effort to unsettle the general list directed pressure toward the oils.

However, aside from pronounced weakness in Atlantic Refining, the attempt was not productive of much success and before the session was well underway, the market steadied, the majority of issues being near their previous finals.

Southern Pacific was a strong and active member in the railroad group and renewed interest was shown in the Van Swearingen stocks, Chesapeake and Ohio and Nickel Plate, in connection with merger reports.

Tobacco were the first to respond to the hardening tendency in the industrial group.

Good buying developed in Boone Woolen on the belief that the depression in the textile industry has reached bottom and that improvement is near.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

Washington Won Big Varsity Race

Wisconsin Finished Second and is Virtually Certain to Return Next Year—Results in Other Races.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18.—While Washington won the honors in the three mile varsity race at the thirty-seventh annual Poughkeepsie regatta, for the second successive year, the remarkable showing of Wisconsin was the talk of the east in rowing circles today.

Finishing second, and only two lengths behind the winners, makes it virtually certain that the Wisconsin crew will return for next year's races, it was declared here today. Previous to the race, much doubt was expressed whether Wisconsin will be a strong contender next year. The victorious Washington crew today were preparing to return to their homes in the far northwest.

The following table gives the positions in which the crews finished, their times and the distance in boat lengths which separated them at the finish in each of the three races:

Belgian Balloon Won Bennett Cup

Seven Participants in Cup Race Have Been Accounted For—None Met With Accident—Cup Remains in Belgium.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Brussels, June 18.—Lt. De Myster, pilot of the giant balloon Belgica, was believed this afternoon to have won the James Gordon Bennett Cup for the third consecutive time.

A telegram was received from Lt. De Myster saying he had landed safely near Edinburgh, Scotland. While official distances have not been compiled, it is understood that De Myster has more miles to his credit than any of the seventeen starters. All of the 17 balloons that left here Sunday afternoon have now been accounted for without a single accident. The Belgica was the last to report.

If Belgium is officially credited with victory this year, the trophy will permanently remain in the possession of that country, as it will have captured it three times in succession.

According to unofficial figures, the nearest competitor of the Belgian aeronaut was the Frenchman Laporte, in the balloon Ville de Bordeaux, which landed near Brighton on the southern coast of England.

Tells the World About Our Region

Attention of Democratic National Convention Delegates Directed by Joseph Drake to Marvelous Scenery of This Section.

Closely following the efforts of the hotel and boarding house keepers of the Adirondack Mountains to prevail upon delegates to the Democratic National Convention in New York city next week to visit that section, the New York World sponsored a movement whereby delegates should visit not only the Adirondacks but become acquainted with New York state in general.

Joseph Drake of New York city, formerly of Kingston, secretary of the Ulster County Society and editor of The Home County Magazine, has written a letter to The World calling attention to the scenic beauties of the Hudson river valley, which The World published under the caption of "A Marvelous State."

Mr. Drake in his letter stated: "I note from The World there is a movement on foot to take the delegates of the Democratic National Convention on a trip to the Adirondacks and let them see New York state. That's fine as far as it goes, but it goes too far to see much for the distance traveled."

"If any state in the union outside New York state had one of any of the great public improvements that are to be found in the Hudson valley, it would be heralded from the house-tops. No other state than New York would allow to pass unnoticed the great road over the Storm King mountain. No other section of the United States combines river and mountain in such a way as to permit construction like the Storm King mountain bridge; no other section in the world can furnish the same amount of traffic for it. But New York state performs great feats as a matter of daily routine and does not tell the world about them. Particularly is this true where innate modesty and old Holland Dutch conservatism still predominate in matters of publicity. A wonderful accomplishment never properly heralded is of recent occurrence, whereby the waters from the Schoharie creek in the Catskills were turned back from their natural northward course and sent swirling southward through the longest tunnel in the world to increase New York city's water supply."

"Within 150 miles of New York where can one go and see more, both in scenery and improvement? Why not take the delegates up the Hudson as far as Kingston, where automobiles can convey them around the Ashokan Reservoir and up into the Schoharie watershed? Returning, take them to East Windham, the greatest view in this country; then down through the Notch of the Catskills, and back to New York in machines over the Storm King Mountain, through West Point and Bear Mountain, Tuxedo, etc."

BIG STORE'S PLANS TO ENTERTAIN DEMOCRATS.

The most unique form of greeting yet devised to a national convention has been completed in the shape of a personally delivered message of welcome to each delegate and alternate before he leaves his home town for the Democratic convention next week.
